PERKINSVILLE SCENE — With only a slight powdering of snow on the ground, the temperature hovered near zero when this picture was taken. Only the winter sun provided the warmth for this view of Mark Valley Farm on McCurdy Road.

For Asbestos Removal School Faces High Cost

An estimated cost of $685,000 faces the Wayland Central School District. It is the expense to meet state and federal guidelines on the amounts of asbestos in the school structures. The fibers are said to be known to cause lung cancer.

The School Board last week at its meeting received a report by the Jack Eisenbach Engineering firm of Utica, hired in the fall to survey the district buildings after guidelines were tightened on allowable amounts of asbestos in buildings and requiring each district to review amounts of asbestos in the schools.

After three months of study, Jack Eisenbach found varying amounts of asbestos in classroom ceilings, vinyl flooring, wrapping pipes and in the heating system.

He said that although some areas, with certain restrictions can be left undisturbed with little chance of danger, there are others that should be renovated as soon as possible.

He reported he found traces of asbestos in 30 areas in the school — 16 of which he termed "high priority."

The areas to be renovated first are in the boiler room where insulation is "severely damaged," plaster in several classrooms where water damage has seeped into cracks and insulation in the Industrial Arts room.

Eisenbach said asbestos removal can start by late spring before the work begins on the scheduled $3.19 million school renovation project.

Dr. John Burroughs, school superintendent, expressed his concern with the amount of asbestos the engineer uncovered because of its dangerous potential.

Burroughs said School Board members will decide by February on the extent of work to be done and how to pay for it.

He said more than $200,000 has been budgeted for asbestos removal in the renovation project, but alternative funds will have to be found if all work is deemed necessary by the board.

The remaining $400,000 can be funded by either delaying other projects slated for renovation this summer, such as partitions and other interior work, or by going back to the voters with a bond proposal, Burroughs said.

In other business, the board: —Approved hiring Russell Thompson for school maintenance effective Jan. 1.

—Authorized a refund of $55.15 for overpayment of 1987-88 school taxes to Wayne and Patricia Cichetti of Rochester.

—Approved new policies comprised of: Fees for the Use of School Buses, Financial Management Policy, and Extra Classroom Activities Fund.

—Received a proposed policy on AIDS.

—Named Terri Tweddell to clerk/typist effective Feb. 1.

—Approved the Wayland Administration Association to represent the district's three principals, three guidance counselors and the school psychologist.

—Accepted the resignation of Vickie Spencer effective Feb. 1.

—Accepted bids for the sale of two surplus school buses. One was submitted by Don Brown Bus Sales in the amount of $1,217 for a 1977 60-passenger vehicle. The other was presented by Southern Tier Bus Sales in the amount of $1,400 for a 1977 30-passenger bus.

Fredonia Student Earns Dean's List

Sherri Nowatzki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nowatzki of Wayland, has been named to the Dean's List at Fredonia State University College.

She is a junior majoring in communications and English and earned a 3.7 grade point average during the fall semester. She also has received special recognition from Kodak Business Television in Rochester where she served as a summer intern last year.

Vol Activities Listed for Board

Reporting earlier this month to the Wayland Village Board, Fire Chief Randy Moore said volunteers of the Wayland Fire Department responded to nine calls in December including three in the village, as many in the town and three drills.

Moore stated that of the number, two were for chimney fires, two motor vehicle accidents, one structure fire and one good intent call. Firefighters expended more than 377 manhours during the period.

The department's Ambulance Corps, in its monthly report, received 28 calls during the month of which 18 were for emergencies, four transfers, three emergency transfers, one for a motor vehicle accident, one for another purpose, and one mutual aid.

Corps officials noted there were 13 calls in the village with 14 in the town in addition to the mutual aid. Equipment was driven a total of 1,057 miles during the period.

MRS. ADAM ENGEL PHONE 728-2272

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Richard (Ann) Averill on the recent death of her brother, Robert Flynn of Rochester.

Mike Chapel, president of the Eagle Distributing Co. of Fairport, presented a video on preventive fire safety in the home to the Perk Auxiliary members Monday evening.

The Eagle Co. handles all types of home fire safety equipment. The specialty is the "Vulcan" fire detector which operates without batteries or electricity and is guaranteed for life. These are not sold in stores but a representative will come to your home and present a 45 minute program and determine how many detectors your home would require for adequate safety and where they should be positioned. Chapel stated they insist all children in the family be present for the talk. Anyone interested in the presentation can call Liz Conrad at 728-5035 and she will forward your name.

In addition, the company offers large "Child Saver" signs to be put on the window of a child's bedroom to indicate to the firemen where youngsters are sleeping. The special feature is that they have a suction attachment instead of being glued to the window which enables you to remove the sign if the child is no longer occupying that room. Mrs. Conrad said the Auxiliary will have a supply of the "Child Savers" available at the next firemen's breakfast Feb. 14.

Happy Birthday greetings to Connie McKee and Dorothy Malter Wager on the second of February; Greg Ott on the third; Patty Ziegenfuss, Eugene Synder Jr. and Dan Edmond on the sixth.

Happy Anniversary to Ed and Norma Holley of Loon Lake on the second and Bob and Dorothy Robinson on the fifth.
